VINTAGE NOTES - 2021:

2021 was a year marked by high heat, low yields, but outstanding quality. It was an unusual growing season in Washington, marked by a record heat event in late June, an overall hot growing season, and in many cases historically low yields. However, the quality of the fruit was great! These growing conditions created fruit with great concentration resulting in fruit-forward wines with a lot of ripe, fruity aromatics.
