STORY:

Concordia Blanc captures the essence of Colorado's high-altitude terroir, where sun-drenched days and cool desert nights in the Grand Valley shape wines of vibrancy and balance. This harmonious blend unfolds with crisp minerality, floral lift, and a touch of delicate sweetness, layered, expressive, and beautifully composed.

An invitation to explore the energy and elegance of Colorado's high desert, Concordia Blanc reflects both the rugged landscape that defines us and Carboy Winery's bold, modern approach to winemaking.

TASTING NOTES:

This second vintage of the Concordia Blanc strikes a beautifully harmonious blend of 59% Riesling and 41% Gewürztraminer. Floral jasmine and rose offer a seamless segue to a tangy tropical medley of melon, starfruit and subtle undertones of pineapple. Pair with spicy dishes or movie nights at home.

VINTAGE NOTES - 2024:

The 2024 vintage in Colorado's Grand Valley will be remembered for its challenges — and its rewards. A late-spring freeze in May cut yields, but the vines rallied, giving us fruit of remarkable intensity. July's heat pushed ripening forward, while August's cooler days and crisp desert nights slowed things down just enough to let flavors deepen, acids hold, and structure develop with grace. Harvest arrived 10–12 days ahead of average, pushing crews to move quickly before fall frost, yet the fruit remained healthy, with robust skins and lively acids. Though volume was down, the quality was undeniable. The wines of 2024 shine with vibrancy and elegance — vivid aromatics, balanced sugars, and a terroir-driven energy that captures the drama and beauty of farming at the edge of the Rockies.
